A Leader's Guide To Getting Started

What Is Neighborhood Watch?

Neighborhood Watch is simply a program of neighbors watching other neighbors' property during vacations, the workday, evenings, or during any absence. It is important to note that police officers who patrol your neighborhood will often be called away because of emergencies. Also, they may not recognize someone as a stranger in your yard—but your neighbors would!

How Does It Work?

The purpose of the Neighborhood Watch program is to create an alert neighborhood by using simple crime prevention methods. The program works through mutual aid—neighbors watching the property of other neighbors. This has several advantages, including the fact that the neighbors know who you are, what type of car you drive, and when you will be away. It does not promote vigilantism.

When Will Our Group Meet?

Neighborhood Watch meetings are conducted on weeknights at 6:30 or 7:00p.m., as a rule. Select the most convenient day(s) for your group and your division representative to set up a date and time for your first meeting.

Please plan well in advance because our officers schedule four to six weeks ahead.

Group Meeting Programs

Typically, the first meeting of a new Neighborhood Watch group will include discussions with a member of the Tucson Police Department on the topics of Neighborhood Watch Concepts, Home Security, and calling the 9-1-1 emergency number versus 791-4444, the non-emergency reporting line.

Neighborhood Watch Leader Responsibilities

The following is provided to assist you in better understanding your role as a Neighborhood Watch leader.

- Maintain a list of the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of your Neighborhood Watch members. We will provide you with a copy of the roster from your first meeting. We ask that you keep it updated.
- Make a plot map of your street with the names, addresses, and phone numbers of your group members. Provide copies for group members and send one to us.
- Using the sign application form, track the neighborhood's progress toward completing steps to qualify for a Neighborhood Watch street sign.
- When a new neighbor moves in, contact them and explain the program. Provide them with Home Security and Operation Identification information.
- Contact your patrol division (see map) to schedule your second and follow-up meetings.

Group Meetings

The Neighborhood Watch program consists of meetings scheduled at least once a year with the Tucson Police Department. Other meetings may be arranged at the discretion of the group.

You are encouraged to have more than the required one meeting per year, and you are not limited to topics presented by the Tucson Police Department. Poll your neighbors to determine what is of interest to your particular group (for example, fire prevention or CPR).

Suggested Activities

As stated previously, you are required to have only one meeting per year with the Police Department. We do recommend, however, that your group remain active throughout the year with activities that benefit your neighborhood. There is nothing like a shared sense of community to help ensure the safety of your home and family.

- Hold block parties or potluck dinners.
- Encourage group participation in taking action to resolve neighborhood problems (for example, speeding vehicles or a lack of lighting) through the Police Department and other City departments.
- Plan activities to involve neighborhood youth in crime prevention, such as painting house numbers on curbs, alley and graffiti cleanup, taking care of yard work for elderly or disabled residents—a clean, tidy neighborhood discourages criminal activity.
- Organize a yard sale to make money to pay for supplies for neighborhood activities (e.g., paint, yard maintenance tools, electric engravers, party supplies).

How To Have A Powerful Neighborhood Watch Group

The Neighborhood Watch leader is just that—a leader, and not the only one doing the work.

Not surprisingly, Neighborhood Watch only works in those neighborhoods where the people are active. Groups that have more than half of the neighborhood involved and meet regularly have the most impact on crime.

Active, effective groups learn that sharing information about what is happening in their area, getting to know one another, and helping each other are vital ingredients for making the Neighborhood Watch group dynamic. National studies have shown repeatedly that people who are involved in strong Neighborhood Watch groups have a significant impact on crime rates in their area.

So, what kinds of things can you do to make your neighborhood a safer place?

- Secure your home and property by installing deadbolts on all doors and auxiliary locks on windows.

- Trim the plants in your yard so that your neighbors can see your home, and so that no one can hide under or behind them.
- Make sure your house numbers are visible from the front and back of your home.
- Implement Operation Identification.
- Light up your property at night—use 60-watt bulbs in front and back porch lights and carport areas. Another good idea is to use motion sensor lights.
- Make your house look like someone is at home. Don't leave clues that you are gone, like newspapers in the driveway, mail piling up in your mailbox, or porch lights left on during the daytime.
- If you are going to be gone in the evening, consider leaving lights on a timer, as well as using a timer to turn your radio or television on and off.
- Get active in your neighborhood. Share information about what is going on in your area.

Operation Identification

Operation Identification is a citizen's burglary prevention program homes and businesses.

Operation ID involves marking property with an identifying number as a means of discouraging burglary and theft. It also provides police with a way to identify property should it be stolen and recovered.
